

Legendary Love. Lesson 26.
My Marriage is Becoming Stronger Each Day
- Additional Resources.

My marriage is becoming stronger each day.

My relationship with my spouse is very important to me. My spouse is my biggest supporter and cheerleader. My relationship enriches my life in countless ways. I am lucky to have my spouse in my life.

I am amazed by how our relationship has grown over the years. Each year is better than the last. I expect this year to be even better. Our love grows by the day, and our relationship is strengthened by that love.

I choose to give my marriage the time and effort it deserves. I spend time each day making it better. I do everything I can to make my spouse happy.

My marriage may have an occasional challenge, but each challenge renews our commitment to each other as we overcome the difficulty.

We are committed to having a strong and mutually beneficial relationship. Our marriage is a priority.

I am happy that my relationship with my spouse benefits our children. They have the opportunity to see a happy and healthy relationship. It sets a good example and can serve as a reference for their relationships in the future. Children are the biggest beneficiaries of a strong marriage.

Today, I remind myself that my marriage is the most important relationship in the world. I am working to strengthen and enhance my marriage. I am lucky to have my spouse and look forward to a bright future together.

Self-Reflection Questions:

1. What can I do today to strengthen my marriage?
2. Does my spouse know how much I appreciate them? How can I show my appreciation?
3. Do I give my marriage the time and attention it deserves?
